

ABSTRACT

A method is presented comprising identifying a weak component in a wireless communication link, instructing a transmitter of the weak component to invoke repetition coding, and selectively combining signals received via multiple antennae on multiple 5 channels to recover information contained in the transmitted signal.

0904731-032501